SUMMIT CONFERENCE of three college presidents, Dr. Gaylord Couchman, U. of D.; Sister Mary Benedict, Clarke, and Dr. A. H. Ewald, Wartburg Seminary, plan Ecumenical Evenings.

'Ecumenical Evening' Opens Series Monday

Dr. Richard Drummond, visiting professor of Ecumenics at University of Dubuque, will explain the function of the World Council of Churches at the opening session of the "Ecumenical Evenings" on the Clarke campus at 7 p.m. Monday in TDH.

Dialogue Between Churches

The Very Rev. Daniel J. Tarrant, diocesan director of the Propagation of the Faith, will speak on "Ecumenism within Catholicism." Msgr. Tarrant, a member of the Clarke theology department, is program coordinator.

Dr. Drummond has just returned from mission work in Japan during 1949-62. He was professor of Christian Studies and Classical Languages at Maiji Gakuin University in Tokyo.

He has written articles in English and Japanese for readers in the United States, Europe, and Japan. In Japan, he served as Japanese correspondent for Christian Century. His book on confrontation of Christian Gospels and religions of the Orient will soon be released.

Subsequent ecumenical evenings on Mar. 24 and 31 will feature faculty members from St. Rose Priory, Wartburg seminary, University of Dubuque, Clarke.

Sister Mary Benedict, BVM, Clarke president, will formally welcome the participants at the Mar. 18 meeting and the Rev. Clarence Friedman, dean of studies at Loras and Clarke chaplain, will preside as chairman.

Spotlighting Scripture, the Rev. John F. McDonnell, OP, professor of Old Testament and Exegesis at St. Rose Priory and Mt. St. Bernard seminary, and Dr. Julius Bodensieck, professor of New Testament theology at Wartburg seminary, will consider "The Bible—Meeting Place for Christians," Sunday, Mar. 24.

Father McDonnell contributes writings on Old Testament theology to Theology in the Catholic College.

Dr. Bodensieck, former president of Wartburg from 1940-47, is an editor of the forthcoming Lutheran World Encyclopedia.

During 1946-48, he was Protestant liaison between the United States Military government and the Evangelical churches of Germany. From 1948-53, he was theological commissioner in Europe for the National Lutheran Council.

On the following Sunday, Mar. 31, Dr. Samuel Salzmann, professor of Liturgics at Wartburg seminary, and Sister Mary Ann Michele, BVM, of Clarke's theology department, will present their research on "Christian Worship—Converging Movements."

In addition to being pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Dubuque, Dr. Salzmann has written Catechists Handbook—for pastors.

Dubuque Attorney Studies Alcoholism At Mar. 17 Forum

Louis F. Fautsch, Dubuque attorney, will speak on "Alcoholism and Marriage" at the third and final Marriage Forum Sunday, Mar. 17 at 8 p.m. in the Loras Fieldhouse.

The purpose of the forums is to acquaint students with various aspects of marriage that are not normally covered in courses on marriage.

The Executive Board of Clarke-Loras-Mercy Marriage Forums for Lent, under the direction of Monsignor Timothy J. Gannon, has chosen the speakers for its discussions.

For Science Building, Dormitory:

President Blueprints '65 Plans

Sister Mary Benedict, BVM, Clarke president, has announced that, in addition to the science-classroom building, the College Development Campaign will include plans for a new student residence hall. It is hoped that both buildings will be ready for use in the fall of 1965.

Ellerbe and Co. of St. Paul are architects for the buildings. Plans for the science-classroom building are almost complete. Plans for the residence hall will be ready sometime in March, Sister Mary Benedict said.

The science building will be erected at the north end of the campus, fronting on Clarke drive. The residence unit will be just south of Mary Josita Hall, fronting on Clarke Drive and extending toward Locust street.

Double Resident Enrollment

In 1955 Clarke had 220 resident students. Today, because of the opening of Mary Josita Hall in 1956 and its expansion in 1959, it has 497 residents and increasing demands for accommodations for more resident students, according to Sister.

When the new hall for 200 is ready, Mary Bertrand Hall and Rose O'Toole Hall will no longer be used for students and crowded conditions in Mary Frances Clarke Hall will be relieved. It will also enable Clarke to accept an additional 100 residents in the fall of 1965.

Campaign Aims at $2,500,000

The College Development Council will launch the campaign late this spring to raise $2,500,000 for two new buildings.

Herman Lott, father of junior Mary Joan, is chairman of the Development Campaign. He will coordinate the work of the local committee with efforts launched by parents of Clarke students and by alumnae throughout the nation. Harry Wahlert of Dubuque has accepted honorary chairmanship of advanced gifts.

Parents Organize

Clarke parents are organized under national co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Bryan P. Coughlin, Oak Park, Ill., parents of Eileen '61.

Regional chairmen include: Iowa—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hardie, Kathleen '66; Illinois—Dr. and Mrs. Philip J. Kartheiser, Sue Ellen '61; Missouri—Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Staehlin, Geraldine '62; Minnesota—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bilek, Barbara '61; Indiana—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moylan, Marice '56 and Mimi '66; Wisconsin—Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Craighead, Charlene '58 and Carole '60.

Area chairmen include: Chicago North—Dr. and Mrs. Edward Meyer, Marilyn '64; Chicago South—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scheibel, Mary Therese '61; Chicago West—Mr. and Mrs. John Mayer, Mary Alice '62; Quad-Cities—Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Martens, Judy '61.

Alumnae national fund chairman is Mrs. Charles H. Carroll (Ruth Donlan). Mrs. James Kean (Mary Ann Crilly) is Dubuque alumnae Fund chairman.

His Excellency, the Most Rev. James J. Byrne, Archbishop of Dubuque and chancellor of Clarke, is honorary chairman of the campaign.

Speakers Capture Trophies At Iowa Forensics Tourney

Clarke participants in the Iowa Forensics tournament captured the Sweepstakes trophy, the Individual Events trophy and top honors for Woman's Oratory and National Peace Oration.

Twenty senior Iowa colleges took part in the tournament held at Loras College Mar. 7-9. In competition with these schools, Clarke totaled the highest cumulative points in all events to win the Sweepstakes trophy, highest award of the tournament.

Two Clarke students will represent Iowa in the national competition at Northwestern University in April. Mary Freiburger, senior, recipient of the gold medal and superior rating, will be the state representative in Woman's Oratory. Sophomore Gretchen Dye will represent Iowa in the National Peace Oration national competition.

These two girls, plus seniors Jude Onofrio in the Poetry division and Maurine Mackin in the Oratory division, totalled highest points for the Poetry, Oratory and Discussion category to merit the Individual Events trophy.

Clarke's debate teams won five out of eight debates in the tournament. Debaters included Peggy Voigt and Judith Heitzman, seniors; Kathleen Fitzgerald, sophomore, and M. Kathryn Downs, freshman.

Individual honors went to Peggy Voigt and Judith Heitzman, superior rating and gold medals in Discussion; Mary Ann Walsh, freshman, excellent rating and certificate in Discussion. Certificates of Excellence were awarded to Judith Heitzman and Kathleen Fitzgerald, debate; Jude Onofrio, poetry; Maurine Mackin, oratory.

Clarke debaters have taken honors in other recent tournaments as well. In a University of Dubuque tournament in which 10 schools participated, Clarke debaters captured second place.

Maurine Mackin received second place in Oratory and Mary Freiburger received third in the tournament held at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Feb. 21-23. The varsity debate squad from Clarke won six out of 12 debates in this tournament. The novice squad won five out of 12.

Festival Features Folk Fun

Strumming, singing and dancing the rhythm of folk music, schola and freshman chorus members will lead their audience through a Folk Festival Sunday, Mar. 24, at 2 p.m. in TDH. Striking a special note on the program, the audience may join performers in an informal "hootenanny" in the Union afterwards.

European and American folk songs will blend with national dances, forming a "composite of our folk heritage," according to Sister Mary Meneve, BVM, freshman chorus director.

Solo vocalists will be Nancy Kaspari, Mary Ellen Leitelt, Victoria Beswick and Sally Ricketts. Shameem Rassam, Barbara Sibilsky and Linda Rodriguez, as well as other freshmen, will dance.

At the songfest following the program girls taking ukelele lessons will accompany singers through popular folk songs.

POISED for a folkdance (l.) are Linda Rodriguez, Christine Kuta and Jo Ellen Howerton, while the Sally Ricketts Trio (r.) combines the voices of Mary Burritt, Susan Stanley and Sally.

Accent on Service

Operation:

Staff Photos

Patricia Walsh: "Since our children are in the 6-13 age group, our biggest thrill comes when they answer a question like 'Who made you?' or take our hands to show us they are happy we care for them as individuals."

Loretta Murphy: "Most of the children don't understand all they hear, but by reviewing and approaching ideas in various ways they may learn enough to receive Holy Communion some day. Even those who will never reach this stage are getting a greater appreciation and knowledge of their religion."

Marguerite Chambers: "Though at times it seems to be a bit discouraging, nothing can equal the thrill we get when a youngster finally learns the Sign of the Cross or pipes up with the right answer to one of the questions."

Catechism

Armed with knowledge, ingenuity and patience, 12 Clarke students help spread the kingdom of God each week by teaching catechism at Dubuque's Retarded Childrens Center. Saturday morning or afternoon finds them instructing, telling stories, playing records, showing movies or supervising art work illustrating basic truths. Discouraging? Sometimes. But rewarding? "Extremely" the girls emphatically chorus.

Salinger Raises One Roof Beam Too Many ----

J. D. Salinger's latest offering to his youthful, devoted public are two republished New Yorker stories in hard-cover form, Raise High the Roof Beam, Carpenters and Seymour, an Introduction. While both stories deal with Seymour, the eldest member of the unusual Glass family and are narrated by his somewhat backward brother, Buddy, Salinger may be raising just one roof beam too many.

Throughout the Glass stories, but in Franny and Zooey and A Great Day for Bananafish especially, Seymour exerts a mysterious force over his own world as well as the Glass children themselves. He possesses knowledge of a great secret which will save or reform all of humanity. The reader is patiently awaiting this revelation, but it never comes and one leaves the stories still hungry for the clue to salvation in Seymour's special world of Zen Buddhism and Oriental philosophy.

In Seymour, an Introduction, one can see the hero's nose, eyes and ears but is even less acquainted with him now than before the 137 page "introduction." Instead the reader is more concerned with the difficulties Buddy Glass experiences in immortalizing his "fabulous" brother who has since committed suicide. The narrator keeps constant tabs on his audience by inserting personal references to the daily rituals of sleeping and eating. At first this is somewhat refreshing, but not so after 100 pages of interruptions.

Seymour is not a story in the traditional sense, but disconnected notes which have no beginning and lead nowhere. However, there are humorous and revealing incidents cited about youthful precociousness which are entertaining.

Raise High the Roof Beam, Carpenters is more pleasing. Here Seymour's absence from his own wedding is viewed through riled relatives gathered for the occasion on a sweltering day in New York. It is similar to Zooey in literary style and Glass family appeal.

However, devoted readers might well demand less looking in the Glass and a change of scenery if Salinger is to keep from slipping down the popularity pole.

a la mode: Styles Parade for NF

NFCCS, in conjunction with Roshek's, will present its style show at 8 p.m. Friday, Mar. 22, in TDH.

Co-chairmen Roberta King and Patricia Dooley are planning the theme of the show around a story plot as yet undisclosed. This is the first year the chairmen are making the clothes selections and they plan to choose appealing, youthful and moderately-priced items.

Models selected for the style show include freshmen Margaret Brady, Mary Breslin, Mary Flad, Judith Gottsche, Noreen King, Mary Ellen McDonnell, Barbara Sibilsky and Jeanne Weber.

Other models are Eileen Casey, Denise O'Brien and Barbara Hutchinson, sophomores; Mary Kay Brooks, Ginna Duffy, Shirley Maloney, Marilyn Meyer, Irene Moen and Allison Wong, juniors; Nancy Dugan, Karen Kress, Marilyn Raymond and Mary Tourville, seniors.

Substitutes are freshmen Diane Graham, Martha Reese and Mary Carol Wirsching and junior Ramah Nagel.

Models from Loras will also appear in the style show.

MILADY Roberta King samples spring hats at Roshek's department store. With her co-chairman, Roberta personally selected styles appearing in the NF show.

Colleen Recalls Erin: Blarney, Heather, Banana Sandwiches

Sparkling eyes and twinkling feet in the Irish reel at last night's St. Patrick's Day Dinner reflected Emerald Isle memories of one of the dancers, freshman Colleen Mary Breslin.

Can you claim the experience of having lived in a foreign country when you were 11 years old? Have you ever wondered if the "romantic" European country life pictured in grade school textbooks is still true today?

For Mary, "Ireland was even better than I had imagined. Even though not every house had a thatched roof, it was a dream country—misty, green, peaceful and beautiful."

With her mother, who was born in Ireland, and sister, Mary spent seven weeks in Irish towns and farms. Favorite memories are of long summer evenings, "sitting around the fire until late, drinking tea, listening to my relatives tell stories."

Sketching Irish farm life, Mary recalled churning butter, sheaving grain, riding horses and for us — just running through the fields or picking heather."

On a typical day, Mary said, "we got up at 8:30, and ate oatmeal with fresh milk. Our main meal was at noon, and if we were in the fields, my aunt took it out to us. When we got back, around 4, we had 'tea,' then talked until midnight."

Although Mary loved all of "sunny, clear, fresh" Ireland, her favorite section was Donegal, "beautiful and rocky." There she and her sister helped round up sheep to be sheared, and at the ocean caught starfish and jellyfish.

"We also visited a fair once," she recalled, citing the chief attraction as "the gypsies with their pinto horses."

Another unusual experience for Mary was celebrating her eleventh birthday in Ireland. "We had frosted fruitcake the size of a regular layer cake," she stated, adding that her birthday party included a novelty menu item — banana sandwiches.

Would she like to go back? "Yes! I want to see Ireland again—and anyway, I forgot to kiss the Blarney Stone!"

Chicago: math

Des Moines: political science

What's a computer? How does it run? Members of the math club with Sister Mary Vera, Sister Mary Michail and Sister Mary Agneda are visiting Illinois Institute of Technology and the International Business Machines offices in Chicago today to find out.

"Both institutes have big computer programs and IIT has a large scientific library," remarked Sister Mary Agneda.

In preparation for the field trip, Frances Plotke, Janet Trine and Carol Pliner discussed computers at the math club meeting Mar. 6.

Frances explained computers in general while Janet spoke of computers in industry. Carol demonstrated one of the simpler types of computers.

Davenport: NF

Clarke NF representatives will attend a Quad-Regional seminar Mar. 23 and 24 at St. Ambrose. Bringing together students from six mid-western states, the seminar will concentrate on "Social Progress and the Western Conscience."

Bruce Collard, Peace Corps director for Nepal and India, will deliver the keynote address Saturday morning. Other topics by guest speakers will be the Common Market, The New Line in Labor, and Medicare. Half-hour minimum discussion periods will follow each lecture.

Meals will be served Saturday and Sunday in the St. Ambrose cafeteria and a social activity is planned for Saturday night. NF senior delegate Marcia Haubold said that last year's seminar was attended by over 300 delegates, and predicts that this one will be well attended and beneficial.

Dubuque: theology

Members of the Clarke theology department attended a commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the death of Pere La Grange, O.P., this week at St. Rose Priory.

Attending from Clarke were Sister Mary James Margaret, Sister Mary Eugenio and Sister Mary Ann Michele.

New Art Exhibits To Display Work Of Five Seniors

Seniors Danette Boegner, Ann Mallon and Margaret Vonderhaar will exhibit their accumulative works of art in the MJH concourse Mar. 17-23.

Danette's exhibit will feature abstract and semi-abstract oil paintings, a wood cut, a linoleum block and an etching done under Mr. Raymond George, her cooperating teacher at Senior high.

Ann will display water colors and ink drawings, some showing satire and emotions, and several caricatures of friends at Clarke and home.

Margaret will show oils, water colors, pencil drawings and a sculptured rhinoceros.

The Senior Exhibit of Barbara Hoover and Marilyn Hyndman will extend from Mar. 24 to 30, with a reception Sunday afternoon, Mar. 24.

Barbara will exhibit water colors, ink drawings and some oil portrait work. Marilyn's works will also include oils, water colors, life drawings and contour drawings.

THE EMPEROR'S "undermost garments" are held up by business manager Jeanne Florian while director Maurine Mackin and technical director Jude Onofrio look on. The three are producing the children's play which is on stage this weekend.

Student Producers, Actors Design 'Emperor's Clothes'

The Emperor's New Clothes, this year's children's play, opens on the Clarke campus tonight at 7 p.m. Performances are also scheduled for Mar. 16 at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., and Mar. 17 at 2 p.m.

The play is a dramatization of the old children's tale about the emperor who loved clothes above all other things. Freshman Judith O'Malley plays the Emperor. The Empress is played by Molly Morgan. Zar and Zan, the two heroes of The Emperor's New Clothes, are played by Danielle Barrett and Joyce Fuller. Sophomore Mary Beth Breen plays Han, the villain.

The Emperor's New Clothes will travel to Cedar Rapids Mar. 22 and 23 to play in the Chapel auditorium at Coe College. The trip is sponsored by a Cedar Rapids community group which has a regular schedule of children's theatre productions.

Senior drama major Maurine Mackin is director of the play. Jeanne Florian is business manager.

Freshmen Prove Physical Fitness 'With Great Vigah'

Could you walk 50 miles? Are you physically fit?

If you aren't sure just take a lesson from Clarke and Loras freshmen. They know.

Have you noticed any freshman lately having a little difficulty getting up the stairs? It might be Kathleen Amundsen. This physically fit freshman did 90 knee bends in biology to measure her increased breathing rate.

A freshman at Loras proved his ability when he broke his foot while trying to pass a physical fitness test. He said, "I finished in 12.5 seconds anyway."

Mary Jo Birsen is still limping around from the knee burns that she receives each week playing basketball. Basketball follows the exercises given during the first part of the period. During that time most of the girls lie on the floor trying to recover their breath.

Even though you see the freshmen walking around groaning about the exercises that they had to do in physical education, don't worry. Some day they too might make it to Washington, D.C.

er and Jude Onofrio is technical director. An annual senior honors project in drama, the children's play is one of the five major productions.

Explaining her choice of this project Maurine said, "I will be teaching and the experience of directing a play will be of more value for me than doing a one-woman show. This is probably the reason Jeanne and Jude chose this project also."

Dramatists Say 'Yes' to Noh Plays

"Noh, Noh, Noh!" To those unacquainted with Oriental drama this might sound like a scolding given to a child, but it is a repetition of the name of one of the four major schools of Japanese theatre, the Noh school. This type of drama will come to Clarke on March 30 when the drama department will present annual experimental theatre.

Noh is a form of Japanese stage art over 600 years old, characterized by masks, dance, and song to the accompaniment of instrumental music. Traditionally this music is played by a shakuhachi flute and three taiko drums of different sizes.

The aim of the Noh theatre, to impress a sense of beauty in describing historical characters and events, is made clear by the costumes which are based on 15th century Oriental costumes. Metallic threads, bright colors and designs are usually present in these costumes.

Wigs of red, white or black and elaborate headgear, varying in size according to age and status of the wearer, complete the dress for performers in this type of theatre.

"Though production of this type of drama will be difficult, we will try to reproduce the Oriental form as accurately as we can with the limitations of the proscenium stage and western 20th century actors," explained Sister Mary Jeremy, BVM, director.

"We will build a platform extension from the front of the stage to the first row of seats," said Sister.

Cast members for the Clarke Noh plays include Barbara Jo Carroll, Nancy Gilgan, Sara Gossman, Roselyn Vogl, Jane Pedersen, Lianne Reuland, Mary Lou Senicka and Kathleen Tomko.

ANTICIPATING the Noh plays, drama majors Peggy Showalter and Joyce Herrick examine Japanese theatre dolls on display in the Margaret Mann Hall solarium.

Experts Share Research In Chemistry, Biology

A microbiologist and a chemist will share top billing when the Science Forum meets Mar. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Addressing the biology section of the Forum, microbiologist Thomas Oeth of the Dubuque Packing Company will discuss infection and parasitism in meat. Mr. Oeth will explain how this can result in poison in the human body.

Student chemists will hear William E. Medcalf, chairman of the chemistry department at the University of Dubuque, discuss "Solid State Chemistry."

Mr. Medcalf is an expert in the field of semi-conductors, the basis of all transistor science.

Patricia Redmond, president of the Science Forum, is general chairman, and Diane Mallinger is in charge of refreshments which will be served when chemists and biologists meet after the separate discussion periods.

Dr. Dietrich Bodenstein, biology professor at the University of Virginia, will address interested faculty and students from Dubuque's colleges and high schools on "Hormones in the Life of Insects" here Mar. 25-26.

During his two-day stay as a visiting biologist sponsored by the American Institute of Biological Sciences, Dr. Bodenstein will share with faculty and students some of the extensive research he has done.

He has researched embryological aspects of comparative anatomy and developmental genetics of Drosophila in particular. His other work has been in the fields of experimental morphology and developmental physiology of amphibians and insects and invertebrate endocrinology.

Speakers, Meetings March into April

'The Apostolate'

"The Apostolate" will be the subject of a catechetical workshop here directed by the Rev. John J. Pitzon of Loras College. This is third in a series of discussions which form part of the training program for summer volunteer missionaries. The workshop will take place Sunday, Mar. 31 at 1 p.m.

'Castro influence'

Ted Ellsworth, Dubuque insurance executive, spoke on the "Influence of Castro in Latin America" at the Mar. 4 meeting of the Social Science Club.

Mr. Ellsworth emphasized the social, political, economic and historical aspects of his recent tour of Castro's "neighbors." Accompanying him on this tour prior to Christmas, 1962, was Stuart Alsop, Washington editor for the Saturday Evening Post.

This unusual expedition was prearranged by the United States government and ambassadors to the Latin American countries.

'Situation ethics'

"The Popularity of Situation Ethics" will confront Gamma Tau Alpha members at their Apr. 4 meeting. Susan Breen, Ellen Clark, Patricia Coe, Mary Freiburger, Ann Leute, Diane Levand and Susan Seipp, under the guidance of Sister Mary Anne, will present the topic.

New Teachers Prepare Now

March brings official preparation for sophomore and junior future teachers.

Sister Mary Teresa Francis, department chairman, is interviewing junior education minors this month to make arrangements for their placement in schools for their September experience. Girls will spend two or three weeks in an elementary or secondary school before the opening of college classes next fall.

The purpose of this is to become familiar with the preparations that must be made for the beginning of a school year and to provide valuable opportunities for learning acceptable school practices, according to Sister.

Arrangements have been made for juniors to visit Dubuque public and private schools, observing the various classroom characteristics, to decide which levels they would like to teach. These visits are being supplemented by movies showing children in classroom situations of all grade levels.

Sophomores are presently applying to the department for education minors. An addition to the procedure of past years is a form to be filled out by the applicant's counselor, indicating fitness for the teaching profession.
